SPECIAL BY TELEGRAPH TO THE RECORD-UNION.

MOUNT McGREGOR, July 22d .- The early morning hours at the Grant cottage were cool and refreshing on the veranda, where an incandescent electric light was burning all night. The thermometer marked at 2 o'clock this morning 72°. This was equal to the temperature maintained in the sickroom while General Grant remained in New York, and to it was added this morning the sweet smell of the pine trees that bend over the cottage root. Between 2 and 3 A. M., the gray tint of another day crept up the horizon beyond the Green Mountains-perhaps the last earthly day of the sick man sitting within the cottage parlor. About and around the cottage all was still and quiet, except for the constant twitter of some belated bird in the bunches of pines. General's pulse was up to the point of 165 beats to the minute, and was fluttering. Occasionally the nurse walked out upon the piazza for fresher air and a glimpse of night, and at nearly 3 o'clock Mrs. Grant came out upon the veranda and seated herself in one of many deserted willow chairs that were scattered about. Suddenly there ame the sound of a rattling, laborious ough from within, and Mrs. Grant left the iazza quickly and seated herself by the General's side, slowly fanning the sick man's face. The cough was not severe, but MINISTERING TO THE GENERAL'S WANTS.

oseph Winterburn rose and in neat and appropriate remarks presented President Barnes with a very unique and handsome Mr. Barnes responded in his usual ready and happy style, and it was quite apparent hat the present was a real surprise to him The host of the evening then presented to Secretary McCarty a beautiful gold badge, with representations of a grizzly bear, a view of the Golden Gate, etc., all nicely engraved, and appropriately inscribed on the reverse side. The recipient responded briefly, expressing his appreciation of the pirit which prompted the gift. There were present altogether nearly sixty persons, many of whom were ladies, intional Church of Oakland, A. M. Benham Director. The evening was enlivened by nusic, speeches, the partaking of refreshments, etc. One pleasing feature was the presentation by Mr. Barnes to his wife of a ourse of $28-one dollar for each year of neir married life. This is a custom which he has never failed to keep. He remarked on this occasion, however, the yearly purse had become very heavy. (It has cost him st $406 thus far to make this yearly conution to his wife.) The affair was in every way a pleasant ne, many being present from far interior

The Part a Rodent Played in Destroying the Governor's War Records. Nobody would think of looking for anything historical in a mouse. The testy things that have long been the terror of the pantry and timid women have everywhere been universally despised. Perhaps, howfullness of its promise," will not find i either expeditious or satisfactory to ignor relinquish their doubtfulness, and look upon the mouse, at least, as an excuse. So. in any event, will California's historian have to take it, for in a mouse he will fin an excuse for many gaps and breaks in ou State history. The San Francisco Post says "It was early Friday morning that th inhabitants of the beautiful valley of Sar Gabriel, Los Angeles county, were amazed to see an added brightness to the early morning sunshine. It was very soon known that the residence of Governor Stonema was on fire. The house, a two-story frame, was speedily wrapped in flames, and the whole neighborhood, or such as had arisen to greet the sun, hurried to the spot. The Governor, unconscious of the havoc that was destroying the visible work of a lifetime, reposed calmly at the residence of his sister, not more than three-quarters of a mile away. "Early in the year 1847, before the era of a 'rising generation' in California, the present Governor came to the Pacific Coast as a young Lieutenant in the service of the United States. Lieutenant Stoneman was stationed in the southern part of the State and from the first became charmed with the natural glory of the country. Inwardly he onged for a home in that delightful regio though, perhaps, there was not much i is position then upon which to build such a hope. But time treated the young soldie kindly, aided, it may be believed, by sturd aits in his personal character. The story of his subsequent life, his recall from Ca fornia, and the part he took in the war of the rebellion after he had been raised t the rank of Major-General are well known Returning to California, General Stonema found means to realize the fancy of hi ounger days, and in San Gabriel he buil the home, where for many years he has lived. There he brought the records of his early life as a soldier in California, a part almost, of the records of the State itself together with the accounts of his career afterwards in a larger sphere. All of them with his library, instruments, family plate military trophies, the accouterments of hi rank in the army, and all the househol keepsakes have been destroyed. Whi the pecuniary loss is given at $10,000, the real destruction is beyond estimate, since t is of the kind that can never be made

"Two theories of the fire has been ad vanced. One that the work was done by an enraged band of Mexicans, one of whos ompanions had been sentenced to death and whom the Governor retused to recog nize as entitled to Executive clemency. Th nice gnawing at matches in the house.'

OURBE BATHING PLACE.—It is published as a fact that crowds of men and boys nightly resort to the river a short distance above the Yolo bridge for bathing. Now while bathing is both a luxury and pro and evenings, there are people who do no relish the idea of having to drink and make their tea and coffee of water in which mass of perspiring humanity had just been washed. Some men are noted for their uncleanliness, and it is certainly no pléasant to think that we are forced to swallow that particular quality of slickens etc., etc., furnished by the average tramp Physicians are well aware that disease easily disseminated by means of water used for drinking purposes, and who should mer with diseased bodies be allowed to wash themselves in the river only a few hundred yards about the suction-pipe? This is a matter that it might be well for the Board of Health, or some other authority, to con few evenings since three children of tender years, who had been playing about a partly constructed residence on O street, between Sixth and Seventh, went inside to inspect the character of the work, and after closing the doors of one of the rooms found they could not get out. They cried themselve hoarse, but no one heard them, and the poor little things had to spend the night in heir prison, half dead from fright. The were found and released the next mornin when the carpenters went to work. The most singular part of the affair is that the parents of the children are not known to have made any efforts to find their lost darlings. But perhaps they neglected to count noses that night before the family re-
